

The Vints Hans Lied

Yiddish Song in the 17th
Century Frankfurter Judengasse

Presented by the Vagantes Conference on Medieval Studies
Northwestern University

The Newberry Consort presents a program centered around the extraordinary Vints Hans Lied, a Yiddish historical song chronicling the events of the Fettmilch Uprising in Frankfurt am Main in 1614. The song tells the tale of the infamous revolt started by the baker Vincent Fettmilch, which culminated into an attempted expulsion of the Jewish population from the city.

Paired with historical music for Purim, the program will include period instruments, voices, and even traditional noisemakers for the audience! The concert will begin with a short explanatory talk by musicologist and project partner Paul Feller-Simmons.

Thursday, March 21st
Harris Hall 107, Northwestern
Campus, 7:00 - 8:15 PM

Tickets: Free.
